

Turvey Groupwork

IGA Diploma in Groupwork Practice - Forensic Settings 2025-26 (at Cuddesdon, Oxfordshire)

Group Analysis is a powerful therapeutic medium that focuses on the relationship between the individual and the group, emphasising the social nature of human experience. The course is an advanced introduction to the theory and practice of group work in forensic settings and can lead to Group Work Practitioner Status and Associate IGA membership. It is also a necessary part of the full training as a Group Analyst.

The course offers a blend of in-person and on-line group experiences.

Entry requirements:

- IGA Foundation Course or equivalent training
- Degree or entry essay
- A group within a forensic setting to bring to Work Reflection Group (WRG) agreed with the Course Convenor.
- Attendance at a course interview with Convenor and a personal consultation meeting with a Training Group Analyst.

The course runs over 10 block weekends from Sept 2025 to July 2026 on Friday afternoon 3pm through to Sunday afternoon 3.30pm.

Course dates - weekend beginning: Sept 19th, Oct 17th, Nov 21st, Dec 5th 2025. Jan 16th, Feb 20th, Mar 20th, Apr 17th, Jun 12th, Jul 17th 2026.

Large Group meetings comprised of current Foundation and Diploma students along with former Turvey courses graduates, is convened online, usually on the 3rd Friday of each month 7pm-8.30pm.

National Learning Experience

A three-day event providing an opportunity to explore some area of the curriculum in greater depth and an experience of working together in various groups with students from across the country. Venue and date TBC.

Assessment

2 essays - 1 theoretical, 1 reflective practice
WRG supervisor's report and workplace supervisor's report where relevant

Structure of Work Reflection Group (WRG)

WRG typically consist of up to 6 students and a WRG supervisor. Students take turns to present their work with the group they have chosen to present in the WRG and this is discussed from a group analytic perspective by the whole WRG. Time is allowed for reflection on the WRG process.

Arrangements for Groups Presented

A wide range of groups are acceptable for the purposes of the Diploma. Groups may take place in the range of forensic settings. The suitability of The group should be discussed with the Course Convenor before applying for the course. Some of the issues to be considered will include frequency of group; stability of the membership of the group; nature of the student's role within the group; ethical issues.

Personal Therapy

Membership of a psychotherapy group is a requirement of the course. Fees for this are payable directly to your group conductor.
